IN HOCKING VALLEY.

TROUBLES OF A MINING FIRM,

Compelled to Suspend Work by Railroad Company-For Which the Miners Cannot Give Thanks.

NEW STRATTSVILLE, O., Nov. 26,-Rend & to give cars to load. They had been employ-Company have combined to drive them out of the valley. The real motive of the Hocking Valley people is not known, but it is the opinion of the miners that they have been playing into the hands of the syndicate managers, who object to Rend running the Straitsville mine. It was impossible carry out the threat that they would starve Union men out, so long as this mine was in operation.

Mr. Rend has been a friend of the miners in this valley. When the strike against the syndicates on account of the reduction of wages, broke out, he contributed $5,000 to relieve the families of impoverished workmen in this place. It is said, that at other points also he was liberal to the starving men, women and children. He maintained a living rate of wages, and frequently de-clared that the miners were entitled to the sympathy of all fair-minded men. He stated that it was nothing less than infathat it was nothing less than infa-mous that paupers, from abroad, should be brought here to starve nativel mmers into subjection. This is not the first attempt made by the syndicate to take revenge on Mr. Rend. A few weeks ago take revenge on Mr. Kend. A few weeks ago they sent emissaries among his own miners and by clever work induced them to go out on a strike. Mr. Kend, who was in Chicago, was relegraphed for by his superintendent, and responded promptly. He came home, called a meeting of his employes and explained the situation to them. They saw at once that he had been played upon and returned to work turned to work.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 .- A reporter who called at Rand's office to-day was informed that that gentleman had left for New Straitsville, O., yesterday morning. He had been advised the superintendent of his mine at that point that the Hocking Valley Road had re-fused to give him cars to load. Those in charge of the office in this city had no fur-ther information in regard to the trouble.

Bloodshed Feared.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26 .- The greatest anxiety is felt here over the situation in the Hocking Valley. Late to-night it was learned that the colonel of the Fifth regiment, located in this city was quietly at work enlisting a company to prepare for active service in | be slightly vexed when he was informed this the Hocking Valley. After waiting for many days, Gov. Hoadly has concluded to call out militia. The miners are having a hard time of it. They can take their choice, being arrested or shot down by soldiers. In case these schemes of the Hocking magnates fail, as a last resort the poverty-stricken miners are to be starved out. The situation is hourly growing more desperate, and blood-shed is feared.

CROUCH'S LIFE INSURED.

A Witness Testifies that Holcomb Made the Application.

JACKSON, Mich., Nov. 26 .- At the opening of the court this forenoon Geo. Bolles was again put on the stand, and kept there by both sides till noon, but very little new testimony was brought out. He explained, by this period. The program will be as follows: using his hands, how the blows he heard the December 24-Theme: Praying the Lord of night of the murder sounded, and the time between them. There were three blows upon the floor, followed by the cry of "oh." Then another blow followed, and another ' and a final blow upon the floor. After that all was still but the wind. He said Crouch owed him $28 at the time of the murder. After his release from jail he started on Holcomb's horse, but met Dan and came back. and the latter paid him the amount. Witness swore positively that he did not know who it was that did the murder, nor never though he did. Never spoke with Julia Reese about it while in jail, but saw her

An insurance agent swore that in 1879 Holcomb had Crouch's life insured, answering the questions and signing Crouch's name to the application.

Serious Stabbing Affray.

Persoung, Pa., Nov. 26.-Last night the Democrats here had a torchlight procession, during which a fight occurred between Raymond Owen and Eugene Glenn, negroes. Wilner Holland, a white man, interfered, whereupon Glenn stabbed him in the heart. Glenn was arrested. He claimed that Holland struck him with a stick twice before the stabbing took place. Holland was a blacksmith, aged 24. Glenn is aged 20. At one time during the night the jail was surrounded by a mob who threatened to lynch the mur-derer, but wiser heads persuaded them to abandon the purpose. The mayor was informed of the situation and appeared on the He addressed the crowd, warned scene. He addressed the crowd, warned them that all disorderly persons would be arrested and requested the people to disperse, which they did.

A Troublesome Crank.

Burrano, Nov. 26.-The District Attorney has been formally notified by the Executive Department at Washington and the Executive Department at Albany that Jno. Mc-Bride, of this city, better known as "the crank badge man of Buffalo," has been guilty of serious misdemeanor. The accution is based upon the following letter, which is self-explaining:

Buffalo, Nov. 28.—To Hon, Theodore Freling-nyson, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.— seall John Russell Lowell, United States Min-ster to the court of St. James, England, or he rill be blown up with dynamite. (Signes). Exter J. J. McBarde.

The district attorney has requested an in-dictment by the grand jury.

UNION WITHOUT HARMONY.

Cold-Water Sauce Not Relished on Thanksgiving Turkey.

ILION, N. Y., Nov. 26.-For several years it has been the custom of the citizens of Ilion to hold union services on Thanksgiving Day. The Presbyterians would throw open their church one year, the Baptists the next and the Methodists would follow the example set by the Presbyterians and Baptists. Hitherto Co. have been compelled to close-their mine | the best of good feeling has prevailed and on account of the railroad company refusing the three congregations have united with a will. This year the St. John element in poling 200 union miners, and it looks as though | ities has edged its way into religion also, and a syndicate of the Hocking Valley Railroad | the demon of discord has been rampant. This is in the natural sequence of events, the Baptists' year, and the pastor of the Presby-terian church is the man who, according to the Ilion rule of three, delivers the discourse. That he will preach from a pulpit whence doctrines of the efficay of water as an outward application naturally emanate is a matter of no moment to Republicans who look with disfavor on the St. John movement. Unfortunately, however, this same clergyman, Rev. M. E. Dunham, has preached the virtues of water taken internally as a panacea for all the evils of politics and indigestion. While Mr. Dunham has, no doubt, been sincere in his advocacy of the modern St. John, he has antagonized a large portion of earnest temperance workers, many of whom will neither contribute to the support of his church nor listen to his preaching. This feeling of an-tagonism has found vent in hundreds of circulars of unknown authorship which have been scattered about town. The circulars read as follows: "Good Republicans and others who can find anything to feel especially thankful about in the results of the late election will, of course, attend services at the Baptist Church on Thanksgiving day and listen to the oration on that occasion. A full attendance of Democrats and Prohibitionists is already assured.'

A PENITENTIARY BURGLARIZED.

Experts Secure $3,000 From the Jail that Should Hold Them.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 26 .- It has been demonstrated now that thieves cannot only break out of the Kings county penitentiary, but can break into it. The prison looks very secure from the outside, for it is surrounded by high walls and the windows are protected by stout iron bars. Furthermore, there are watchmen who are supposed to be always around and prepared to resist any attempted intrusion, as well as to prevent any escape. The idea of an attempt being made by burglars to break into the prison would seem to be ridiculous. To the un-professional thief it would look like walking directly into the lion's mouth. It is not surprising, therefore, that Warden Green should morning that burglars had broken into the orison and robbed the safe in the shoe shop. The burglars entered the window of the shop on the Carroll street side. They used a stout iron bar or sectional jimmy and pried the bars of the windows apart. They took upwards of $3,000, which the Bay State shoe and leather company had sent there yester-day to pay off the outside help. Several de-tectives have been sent out to the penitentary. That the burglars were professionals there is no doubt, and they certainly knew of the money in the safe.

Special Dispatch to THE TELEGRAM.

GRAND HAVEN, Nov. 26 .- To-night Capt. Joseph W. O'Brien and Miss May Gillen were married with very impressive Episcopal ceremonies in the presence of the elite of Grand Haven. The house was beautifully decorated with floral designs and flowers. There were wedding presents in great variety and very costly. It was the most prominent marriage that has occurred here for years. Capt. O'Brien is well known to all marine men on Lake Michigan. The bridal party left immediately for Chicago and an extended eastern trip.

Senator Conger and His Office. Boston, Nov. 26 .- A Washington special says: "The report is again circulated that Senator Conger, of Michigan, is to reign in order to succeed Chief Justice Carter on the district bench. The report doubtless takes its rise from pressure being exerted on the President by Michigan politicans to provide in some way a life office for Mr. Conger, who wants it, while they want a chance to fill his seat in the Senate. Mr. Conger says he knows nothing of the President's plans."

OUR NATIONAL AFFAIRS

SOME CURRENCY STATISTICS.

An Increase of the Business of the National Banks-The Affairs of the Navy Discussed.

Washington, Nov. 26 .- Comptroller of the Currency Cannon has just completed his annual report. That portion devoted to national bank statistics shows that during the year ending November 1, 1884, 191 banks were organized with an aggregate capital of $16,042,230, and with $3,866,230 circulation. Since the establishment of the banking system in 1863, there have been organized 3,261 national banks, and, of this number, 2,671 were in existence Nov. 1, last, the largest number in operation at any one time. The corporate existence of ninety banks expired during the year, of which eighty-three have been extended. The corporate existence of 154 banks will expire during November and December this year, and 720 banks with an aggregate capital of $186,000,000 will expire during 1885. Eleven banks have failed and were placed in the hands of receivers during the year.

Items of resources and liabilities tabulated in the report indicate that the business of the national banks during the past eleven years has generally increased. The aggregate liabilities of national banks to depositors and correspondents were reduced during the year more than $94,000,000. This reduction of liabilities and general reduction of loans by banks, which amounted to more than $63,000,000, during the year was doubtlessly caused, the comptroller says, by financial troubles last May, and the general depression of business.

Naval Affairs Discussed.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The sub-committee of the appropriation committee having the Navy Bill in charge, had a conference with Secretary Chandler to-day. The Secretary said the affairs of the Department had gone on smoothly thus far under the continuance of the old appropriation, and the committee emed to favor the idea of further continuing it for the rest of the year. The question of the reconstruction of the navy will probably be considered in connection with the new bill for the fiscal year.

The Canadian Premier Banqueted.

LONDON, Nov. 26 .- Sir John A. McDonald, the Canadian Premier, was tendered a banquet to-night, at which the Marquis of Lorne presided. Sir John, in replying to the toast of the evening, said every one in the Dominion seemed determined to banish the spirit of discord and endeavor to promote unity among various races of which the population is composed. #### MICHIGAN'S INSANE.

Some Information Concerning Numbers and Their Accommodation.

F. M. Carroll returned from Kalamazoo esterday, where he endeavored to gain for his brother Charles admission to the Insane Asylum. His efforts were entirely fruitless owing to the present over-crowded condition of that institution. While in Kalamazoo he received from Dr. Foster Pratt some very significant information relative to Michigan's insane. The doctor says there are 2,500 insane people in the State to be cared for. The asylum at Kalamazoo can comfortably, and without danger to attendants, accommodate 650. They now have there over 800. The Pontiac asylum can care for 500 comfortably, but now contains over 600. The asylum at Traverse City can care for 500, when completed. Besides these institutions of the State there are a few private institutions that provide for a small number each. From this it will be seen how utterly inadequate are the provisions in this State for the unfortunate insane. In the case of Charles Carroll, who served four years during the war, and the last nine months of the time inside of wretched rebel prisons, it seems sad that there is no institution to open its doors to him and provide treatment for the unfortunate malady, that was brought upon him only from the hardships and exposures received in serving his country in war.

A Thanksgiving Fable Related by " Puck."

Sallie Fussandfeather was the finest turkey-hen in the farm-yard of Silas Groot. She had been born in the Spring from an unusually large egg, and each succeeding month had seen her increase in beauty and plumpness. Every feather was slick and smooth, and if there was any fault about her it was because she waddled a little from very fatness. She was the acknowledged belle of the yard, and it was thought the proper thing when John Dindon, the magnificent turkey-cock, picked her out as his favorite hen.

Silas Groot, the farmer, did the same thing, and one day as Sallie strayed near the open window, she heard him say: "We shall have a fine feast on Sallie Fussandfeather come Thanksgiving. She is just in shape to kill."

Sallie saw that her beauty bid fair to be her ruin, and at once knew that she must take measures to save her life. She thought of running away, but gave that up when she remembered the savage dogs outside. Then she determined on starving herself. She refused the fat worms and grains of corn which John Dindon brought her, and she ate only enough to sustain life. She stood out in the rain, neglected her feathers and moped like a sick cat. She soon became thin and worn, and as shabby as she had been beautiful. John Dindon deserted her, and she was the laughing stock of the whole yard. But she was more than repaid for all her sufferings when, on the day before Thanksgiving, she heard Silas Groot say:

"Something is the matter with Sallie Fuss-andfeather. She is too poor to kill, and she won't do for dinner. That night Silas took her from her roost, chopped off her head, and sent her as a present to a poor family.

Ten horses stolen were captured from the outlaws.

THANKS-GIVING FOR THE POOR.

Over Four Hundred Dollars Contributed for the Benefit of the Worthy Poor in the City.

The household of many a poor family will be gladdened to-day by a full supply of good things for a substantial Thanksgiving dinner, and thanks to the generous well-to-do citizens of Grand Rapids. No worthy project was ever undertaken and met with such prompt response as the one undertaken and executed by Congressman Houseman, I. M. Weston and Supt. Perry yesterday These gentlemen met at Sweet's Hotel yesterday forenoon, Supt. Perry was handed a subscription paper headed with the names of Messrs. Houseman and Weston, and in a few hours succeeded in raising over $400.00. The Alderman and Superintendents of the Poor met in the city building in the afternoon. The lists of the city poor were soon completed from those of the Superintendent, the U. B. A. Horne, St. Mark's Home and from suggestions made by those present. A committee to purchase supplies was appointed. They did their work promptly and effectually, and by 7 o'clock in the evening the city supply store, under the American Express building on Pearl street, was well filled with turkeys, chickens, ducks, oysters, steaks and roasts. There was also an abundance of crackers and canned fruits and vege-Messrs. Houseman, Weston and Belknap were soon hand and hard at work sorting out the provisions, labelling them with addresses of the families to whom they are to be distributed this morning. Mayor

Belknap took hold of the work heart and soul, and volunteered to distribute the food among the poor of the Sixth and Seventh wards himself. When it made this proposition, some suggested he had better have some help; that he could not do it all alone. "Oh, yes I can," he replied, as he grabbed a twelves oun turkey and marked it to a man in the Fifth ward, with a family of nine children. The prime movers, together with the Mayor and the Aldermen, were kept busy until after 10 o'clock, dividing up the turkeys and such among the 250 poor families on the list. This morning they will be distributed in the city under the direction of the Aldermen and others who have interested themselves in the work. Wagons have been procured, without any expense to the city, and the work of distribution will be prompt and in time to give the recipients time to prepare their presents for dinner. The little gamin have not been overlooked and will have a feast in the old Peninsular Club house between one and two o'clock this afternoon. The newsboys, boot-blacks and in fact all youngsters unacquainted with frequent recurrence of a "square" meal are cordially invited to be present and gorge themselves, though they must not put any away in their pockets. The market was almost entirely in the hands of chiques, who manipulated in their interests. The buils bid values up steadily during the first hour and by Il o'clock the whole list was % to 1 per cent, higher than last night. The advance was a signal for selling by the room traders, and their offerings, together with a raid on some of the leading specialties by the bears caused prices to weaken, and by 12:30 p. m., the early improvement was more than lost, nearly every stock that hour showing a decline. ranging from % to 1% per cent. About 10 o'clock there was a decided change in the temper of speculations. An active buying of all the leading speculatives was began, and values took a sharp upward turn. The buying was continued with but little interruption to within a few minutes of the close, prices climbing higher and higher on every transaction. This sudden improvement in values caused a regular stampede among the shorts, who lost no time in covering. Their buying materially assisted the rise. At times considcrable excitement characterized the dealings, which in some instances, were quite heavy.
